The U.S. Deficit and a Raid on Highway Funds

James H. Pilkinton, Hope attorney, sent me under date of Aug. 11 a copy of Bank Bond Comment bearing the heading "Awash in a Sea of Red Ink." The commentary opens with a bang:

"The federal budgetary situation remains a serious concern, for the only true barrier to inflation and balance of payments crises, is fiscal discipline."

"Uncontrollable" expenditures—now $130 billion out of a budget of more than $250 billion—are estimated at about $175 billion in just a few years...In other words, as a nation we are making decisions now as to how we will spend most of our available revenues many years in the future."

In other words, as a nation we are making decisions now as to how we will spend most of our available revenues many years in the future."

And from the telegraph wire I learn:
So great is the shortage of federal funds—and eventually federal credit also—that the Senate Public Works Committee last week voted in favor of a strictly dishonorable bill. The measure would crack the Highway Trust Fund for cash to provide aid to states and cities to buy buses and build bus lanes.

Everyone knows that when the federal government levied a special tax on gasoline to pay for the Interstate Highway System it locked this up in the Highway Trust Fund under a solemn pledge never to spend it for anything except the Interstate system.

Apparently the only solution for a spendthrift Congress is the one the late Will Rogers recommended as a cure for highway congestion: "Put off the highway all cars that aren't paid for."

Let the Congress find the money first before spending it.

Agnew for president?

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he has made no decision to run for president in 1976 but "I'm keeping the options open."

He set out that position Sunday amid speculation that the seeds of an Agnew presidential nomination in 1976 are being sown as the rules are written by the 1972 Republican National Convention.

"I'm very pleased with it," the vice president said when asked about Miami Herald and Washington Post delegate surveys showing him by far the favorite for the 1976 GOP presidential standard bearer.

"But this doesn't mean I've decided to seek the presidency," Agnew added. Agnew made the comment to newsmen as he focused his arrival and first-day convention activities on getting out a youth vote for Nixon.

The vice president predicted at a poolside youth-appreciation dinner that a great many more of the new 18-year-old voters and other young people are going to vote for Nixon than people expect. And he said they're going to "because of his programs."

Agnew said these include phase-out of the draft, and a foreign policy "that will keep us from becoming implicated in frustrating and debilitating — yes, and demoralizing — wars."

Convention kickoff today; floor fight on 1976 delegates

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Republicans launch their precisely scheduled convention today to renominate President Nixon while party leaders seek to head off a floor fight over the shape of the 1976 convention.

An afternoon meeting of welcoming speeches and a filmed tribute to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower was to open the 1972 affair, followed by a night session featuring three keynote speeches to hail accomplishments of the Nixon administration.

With everything programmed, down to Nixon's renomination Tuesday night, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's selection Wednesday night and final adjournment at 10:20 p.m. Wednesday, the Republican convention loomed as a sharp contrast to the all-night sessions and bruising floor fights that marked last month's Democratic Convention here.

Only one issue appeared headed for a battle on the convention floor, the question of how delegates will be allotted by states for the party's next convention in 1976.

The convention's Rules Committee considers the question today.

Unless a compromise can be reached, the issue will be fought out on the convention floor and before the nation's television viewers Tuesday afternoon in the only crack of the solid Republican unity marking this convention.

Threat of another floor fight, over the women's rights portion of the party platform, all but vanished over the weekend. Rep. Margaret Heckler of Massachusetts said no woman on the platform tried to bring up a statement on abortion.

Even the protesters appeared to be following a well-ordered schedule. Several hundred caused a massive traffic jam Sunday night outside the Fontainebleau Hotel, scene of a $500-a-ticket, fancy-dress GOP ball. A few eggs were thrown and a few party-goers were jostled but large numbers of night-stick-carrying police dispersed the demonstrators without injury or arrest.

With no Republican opposition to Nixon to worry about, GOP leaders kept up a steady drumbeat of criticism of Democratic nominee George McGovern. Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, the party chairman, charged the South Dakota senator had virtually destroyed "any chance for peace this year" in Indochina.

McGovern, meanwhile, planned a departure from the usual practice of lying low during the opposition party's convention.

He has a busy schedule for the week, including a tour of Pennsylvania flood damage today, a visit to former President Lyndon B. Johnson's ranch on Tuesday and a speech before the American Legion convention in Chicago on Wednesday.

As delegates arrived in Miami Beach, Dole added his voice to the effort to compromise the fight over the delegate-apportionment plan approved last week by the Republican National Committee at the behest of smaller, more solidly Republican states.

At the center of the fight is the prospective 1976 candidacy of Agnew, who arrived in this sweltering convention city Sunday afternoon proclaiming "I'm

GOP, Demos disagree on policy platforms

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Disagreements between the Democratic and Republican platforms are highlighted in the passages on Vietnam policy, amnesty for draft resisters and the busing of school children.

The Democratic policy statement was approved last month at the party convention. Republicans meeting here will formally adopt their platform Tuesday afternoon.

The following textual extracts from both point up the contrasts as well as some similarities.

VIETNAM
Democratic — We pledge, as the first order of business, an immediate and complete withdrawal of all U.S. forces in Indochina. All U.S. military action in Southeast Asia will cease...We must insist that any resolution of the war include the return of all prisoners...

Republican — We will continue to seek a settlement...which will permit the people of Southeast Asia to live in peace under political arrangements of their own choosing...We believe that the President's proposal to withdraw remaining American forces from Vietnam four months after an internationally supervised ceasefire...and all prisoners have been returned is as generous an offer as can be made by anyone...who is not bemused with surrender.

DEFENSE
Democratic — Adequate military forces for deterrence and effective support of our international position. But we will also insist on the firm control of specific costs and projects...The military budget can be reduced substantially with no weakening of national security.

Republican — We draw a sharp distinction between prudent reductions in defense spending and...meat-ax slashes...Specifically, we oppose plans to stop the Minuteman III and Poseidon programs, reduce the strategic bomber force by some 60 percent, cancel the B1 bomber, reduce aircraft carriers from 16 to 6, reduce tactical air wings by a third, and unilaterally reduce U.S. forces in Europe by half.

Challenges on tap at convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Republican convention Credentials Committee was to dispose of two seating challenges today — one an attempt by Rep. Paul McCloskey to sound a note of protest on the Vietnam war and the other an effort to seek more black delegates.

either McCloskey's challenge or one brought by three young Virginians seeking black delegates will be carried to the full convention.

Even if the Credentials Committee reverses an earlier GOP committee recommendation, which is unlikely, McCloskey still can't take his Vietnam protest to the convention floor because of rules adopted by another pre-convention panel.

McCloskey had hoped to be able to name author Thomas

Mayor his sole convention delegate and have Mayor nominate him for president.

To preclude such a possibility, convention rules adopted late last week require that no person can be nominated unless the majority of three state delegations favor him.

The GOP National Committee's Contest Committee, in addition, ruled that McCloskey, from San Mateo county, Calif., did indeed get one delegate of New Mexico's allotted 14 delegate votes due to his showing in the presidential primary there. But all the votes will be cast by the delegation chairman and McCloskey's name won't be put in nomination.

McCloskey has conceded that he has no legal rights to choose his own delegate. But he argued last week that the GOP has a moral right to hear his protest even though it would eventually go on to overwhelmingly nominate President Nixon for re-election.

PAUL McCLOSKEY
...GOP dissenter

McCloskey, who had challenged President Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination based on opposition to Nixon's war policies, had hoped to have an author opposed to the war nominate him for the presidency.

GOP General Counsel Fred Scribner said it is unlikely that

Missouri Republican has key roll in convention

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — A key role goes to a Missouri Republican today in the opening session of the Republican national convention.

Rosemary Ginn, national committeewoman from Columbia, was scheduled to present a summary of the report of the Delegates and Organization Committee to the full convention.

Mrs. Ginn said the Missouri delegation will be bolstered in Miami Beach by the presence of the Republican nominee for governor, Christopher "Kit" Bond, and his choice for state Republican chairman, Richard "Dick" Berkeley of Kansas City, Mo.

"We've the finest slate of candidates for Missouri that I have seen in some time," Mrs. Ginn told a newsmen during an appearance at a reception honoring Republican National Chairman Bob Dole, a senator from Missouri's sister state of Kansas.

"When I see these young men, and I think what they can do for the state of Missouri, I can't work hard enough," Mrs. Ginn said.

Another non-delegate from Missouri who is in Miami Beach for the convention is State Sen. Richard M. Webster of Carthage.

Webster, only Republican to be speaker of the Missouri house in recent years, is the father of the youngest member of the Kansas delegation.

Bill Webster, 18, is an alternate delegate from Lawrence, Kan., where he will be a sophomore this fall at the University of Kansas.

Young Webster is serving a dual role, because he also is a radio newsmen furnishing reports to stations in Missouri and Kansas.

"I'm glad to be an 18-year-old delegate," said Webster. "We need to get more young people involved."

The alternate delegate-newsmen said he is considered something of a traitor since he moved to Kansas and goes to school there.

Police, protestors: Just getting acquainted at Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police and protestors got acquainted across a line of nightsticks on the eve of the Republican National Convention as demonstrators capped a day of street action with an attempted disruption of a GOP gala.

Sunday was, however, clearly a day of preparation for both sides.

Only a fraction of the assembled protestors and a small band of police participated in Sunday's main event.

Most of the 4,000 demonstrators remained in Flamingo Park while the 1,000 National Guard troops and 2,500 Army paratroopers stood by in their encampments, but were never called.

An "Honor America" parade and a "dishonor America" rally occupied attention earlier Sunday. So did a marijuana smoke-in, an anti-Nixon rock opera and the bodily ejection from the park of a contingent from the American Nazi Party.

But the day's only real confrontation came at nightfall, when some 350 members of the Students for a Democratic Society marched in front of the plush Fontainebleau Hotel just as party faithful were gathering for a $500-a-plate gala. President Nixon's wife and daughters — guests of honor — already were inside.

Chanting "keep the rich out," the demonstrators burned an American flag, locked arms at the hotel entrances and harangued and jostled dinner guests arriving in tuxedos and formal gowns.

About 200 helmeted state troopers stood shoulder-to-shoulder in front of the hotel as early arrivals elbowed their way through the jeering protestors. After an hour, the troopers moved slowly forward (Continued on next page.)

Quang Tri:

The destruction of a Vietnamese city

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — As efficiently as a heel grinds out a smoldering cigarette, so have the South Vietnamese, their American allies and the North Vietnamese crushed the life from Quang Tri City.

Both sides are systematically destroying the once-pleasant riverside community of palm-shaded streets and historical sites where 80,000 Vietnamese lived. It is an orgy of destruction that has no parallel in the Vietnam war.

The vistas of tumbled, broken homes, of steel rods sticking grotesquely from twisted concrete walls, of hollow-eyed, crouching men are from earlier wars. Quang Tri today is Seoul in 1950, Cassino in 1944, the towns and villages of Europe wiped out in World War I.

A pall of black smoke hangs over the city, like that over an American industrial town in the days before anyone bothered about pollution. But here the only industry is war.

The South Vietnamese marines inside Quang Tri have taken well over 1,000 casualties in 25 days at a conservative estimate, their American advisers say. The Vietnamese paratroopers before them were relieved because of crippling casualties.

No one wants to go forward or back, only to crouch under a wall and listen for the boom of a distant gun firing, and the crump as the shell screams into the city. At least 1,000 shells boom into Quang Tri every day, they say. And that is not counting the shelling and air strikes launched against the North Vietnamese.

At any one time that enemy might number 600 men at most, the marines say. Some sit inside the walled Citadel in the northern part of the city, reportedly with enough food and other supplies for two years, left behind in May by the fleeing South Vietnamese infantry.

The North Vietnamese also hold five strongpoints in the south of the city, formerly moated forts for headquarters elements of the South Vietnamese army. The defense includes stout demonstration bunkers built by the U.S. Marines three years ago.

If progress can be measured by 10 yards advance today, then back five tomorrow, or a whole block gained by a battalion in three weeks after taking 200 casualties, then the South Vietnamese are making progress in Quang Tri.

If the Communists measure progress by delaying the government advance for a few days at the cost of no one knows how many dead then Hanoi no doubt is satisfied.

Young officers graduating from the Thu Duc Officers' School near Saigon fear going north to Quang Tri. The war is so fierce there, they say, that man could not survive to live out his true destiny.

But the officers still go north from Saigon to Quang Tri, just as the other officers come south from Hanoi. Their destiny seems to be to die in a dead city.

Two states seek disaster relief

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Officials in West Virginia and Minnesota sought federal help today as the result of weekend flash flooding that inflicted damage estimated in the millions of dollars.

West Virginia Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. has asked President Nixon to declare four counties disaster areas.

The presidential declaration is necessary for federal relief funds to be allocated. The request covers Mingo, Logan, McDowell and Wyoming Counties.

Total damage from the West Virginia flooding is estimated at $6.9 million, a spokesman for the governor said, with $1.9 million of that to property, both public and private.

More than 100 persons were being housed Sunday evening at the grade school in Gilbert, headquarters for emergency flood aid in the southern West Virginia area.

American Red Cross and Salvation Army workers provided free meals to about 1,000 area residents Sunday.

Road damage in the Gilbert area was estimated at $1.5 million, according to spokesman, and 200 car bridges and more than 500 foot bridges were washed away.

Thirty-five persons were isolated from Gilbert, a tiny Mingo County community, when a major bridge washed out.

Mayor Ben Boo of Duluth, Minn., said he will seek federal designation of Duluth and southern St. Louis County as a disaster area.

A violent electrical storm struck the city about 4 a.m., dumping 2.95 inches of rain in slightly more than two hours.

The deluge came just four days after more than 3.5 inches of rain fell Wednesday in the same area.

No injuries or deaths were reported.

A civil defense spokesman said there were "extensive washouts," some as deep as 10 feet, in central Duluth. Some persons in the flooded area said the scene looked like a battlefield with broken chunks of pavement and other debris heaped several feet high.

At a news conference Sunday afternoon, the mayor said there was no way to determine the full amount of damage immediately, but the loss to public property alone is expected to run into "millions of dollars."

Heavy weapons, troops reported near Da Nang

SAIGON (AP) — Three thousand South Vietnamese troops launched a drive today aimed at blocking a North Vietnamese division from pushing out of the captured Que Son Valley into South Vietnam's populous coastal lowlands south of Da Nang.

U.S. Air Force crews reported spotting big North Vietnamese 130mm artillery guns and tanks in the area of the Que Son fighting, some 35 miles south of Da Nang. The air force communique said F4 Phantoms knocked out three of the guns and two tanks. It was the closest such heavy weapons have been reported to Da Nang.

The North Vietnamese pushed through the valley during the weekend, inflicting heavy troop and equipment losses on the South Vietnamese. It was the biggest Communist gain since Quang Tri fell last May 1 and posed an immediate threat to Da Nang, the country's second largest city, and a heavily populated 50-mile strip of Highway 1 to the South.

Field reports said the South Vietnamese counter-advance westward from Fire Base Baldy was slowed by moderate North Vietnamese resistance and the long-range artillery fire.

By noon, the South Vietnamese had advanced about miles to the mouth of the valley, and were about five miles from the fallen strongpoints of Fire Base Ross and the Que Son district headquarters.

One South Vietnamese regiment which had been defending Fire Base Ross was declared combat ineffective with at least 22 men killed, 130 wounded and scores of others scattered and missing.

For the third successive day, U.S. B52 heavy bombers swept over the valley to attack North Vietnamese troop concentrations and staging areas.

Field reports said hundreds of refugees were fleeing to the coast, including many wounded in the crossfire.

The Que Son Valley leads from the mountains near the Laotian border across Highway 1 almost to the South China Sea. It is a natural infiltration route to the coast.

It was the first time the Communists had taken the valley despite a major push in the region every year since 1964. This year's North Vietnamese drive of about 2,500 men was the biggest. A 5½-month series of attacks chipped away at the Hiep Duc and Que Son valleys, forcing the South Vietnamese to yield several firebases and villages earlier in the campaign.

The Saigon command also announced that 85 persons were killed or injured over the weekend in the Central Highlands when a civilian bus hit an enemy mine and a helicopter carrying refugees turned over and crashed.

Forty civilians were killed and 30 others were wounded when the mine ripped through the packed bus Sunday about 25 miles south of Pleiku, Saigon headquarters said.

The Saigon command first announced that a helicopter collision in the air over Kontum killed 38 Vietnamese and injured 42, but later said this was in error, there was no collision and 12 persons killed and three were injured. A spokesman said the big Chinook had landed at Kontum and let most of the refugees off when it suddenly rose out of control and flipped over, showering debris on a smaller helicopter parked nearby.

A motion of appellant to dismiss appeal was filed in the case of Marie Altman, guardian, v. Louie A. Loetscher, from Faulkner Circuit.

Hijacking suspected in arrest

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Two Minneapolis men were arrested here Sunday after one told an Ozark Airlines stewardess, "All we want is $100,000 and two parachutes," but federal authorities will not charge them, the FBI said.

"Due to the physical condition of the man who made the statement and because there was no interference with the operation of the plane and because of his obvious inability to carry out any such threat, U.S. attorneys have declined prosecution," said Fletcher D. Thompson, special agent in charge of the Omaha office of the FBI.

The two, members of a disabled veterans group flying from Minneapolis to a meeting in St. Louis, were identified as James William Summer, 23, and Roy George Schenck, 29.

Thompson said Summer, who made the statement, is a veteran who was wounded in Vietnam, is paralyzed on one side and is an epileptic.

An FBI spokesman said at least one of the men appeared to have been drinking heavily.

and forced the demonstrators away from the premises.

The demonstrators gave ground, pounding on roofs and hoods of cars as they retreated. Then, proclaiming victory, they began the two-mile southbound trek back to Flamingo Park.

Police reported no arrests and no injuries. The only casualties apparently were egg-splattered dinner jackets, scuffed satin slippers and torn ball gowns.

This was the first time at either of the two conventions that nonparticipants had been caught up in a confrontation between police and demonstrators.

The police had held fast in their ranks despite the urging of bystanders to intervene.

"We waited until they were assaulting people and could wait no longer," said Police Chief Rocky Pomerance. "Our approach was to protect people, not hurt anyone, not arrest anyone."

"Those people are going to have a little indigestion tonight," said Joe Martin, an organizer with SDS's Miami Collective. "We made our point. We were not intimidated by the cops. We've got three days and have to build."

Some 200 members of the Miami Gay Activist Alliance, a group supporting equal rights for homosexuals, conducted the most peaceful protest of the day. Carrying candles, they walked on the sidewalks to Convention Hall, sat briefly in a demonstration area in front of it, then returned without incident to the campsite.

The "Honor America" parade, organized by a local political candidate, wound through the streets in 95-degree heat with few participants and fewer spectators.

The "Dishonor Amerika" rally, organized by the Zippie faction of the Youth International Party (Yippies), ended with 400 persons marching the six blocks from the park to Convention Hall. A bottle of urine was poured on "objects of honky American culture" — a can of deodorant, brassieres, computer cards and an American flag.

Contingents of fatigue-clad Vietnam Veterans against the War arrived by car and on foot throughout the day, ending what they called "the last patrol." One batch of VVAWs halted in front of the Doral Hotel, headquarters for the Committee to Re-elect the President. The vets executed a left face, then broke toy M16 rifles over their knees.

keeping the options open" on a possible presidential bid four years hence.

Many of those from the large states who are fighting the delegate-apportionment plan approved by the national committee contend it would help Agnew by giving votes to states likely to support him in 1976.

Sunday night's gala, featuring Mrs. Nixon and the President's two daughters, was only one of a large number of social events on the schedule.

"We don't look at this as a working convention as such," one New Hampshire delegate said. "Most of us will enjoy it."

Two delegate challenges, affecting a single seat in New Mexico and two in Virginia, were before the convention's Credentials Committee. Neither challenge received a single vote when heard by the national committee last week.

One was Rep. Paul N. McCloskey's effort to win seating of a New Mexico delegate who could argue his viewpoint on the convention floor. New Mexico Republicans agreed to abide by the result of the state's primary and cast one vote for the California war critic — but refused to let him have a delegate who might get up and make anti-Nixon speeches.

The other challenge involves two seats in the Virginia suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The formal convention programs are a mix between the traditional speech-making and a series of films on the Nixons, the administration and related subjects.

One switch from the past is the decision to have three keynote speakers instead of the usual one to extol the party's virtues and flay the opposition's shortcomings.

The three who speak at tonight's session are Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the only black member of the Senate; Anne Armstrong of Texas, cochairman of the National Committee and the first female keynote; and Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, who is being promoted by some Indiana politicians as 1976 presidential material.

Bloodmobile will visit here on August 28-29

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Hope Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 28-29, according to county chairman Haskell Jones.

The Bloodmobile will be headquartered at the First Presbyterian Church; persons have been requested to enter from Walnut St. and parking is available in the rear of the church.

Jones said this year there will be only three visits, but the annual quota has been raised to 750 pints.

Jones has sent letters to the Junior Auxiliary, B & PW Club, Farm Bureau, Kiwanis, Lions, Optimist, and Rotary requesting their help in reaching this quota. Members of these organizations have been asked to visit industries and secure pledges from workers to give blood.

To secure 125 pints per day will require maximum operation for the full six hours or 20 pints per hour. Persons who can give blood before 3:30 p.m. should try to come between 12 noon and 3:00 p.m. to allow industrial workers to be processed after 3:30 p.m., Jones said.

Oswald: "One of the most important things declarer should do is just to play carefully. It is surprising how many contracts will be saved by following this precept."

Jim: "South might well have raised his partner to two hearts instead of bidding one spade, but that is a matter of style and no one can really criticize that spade bid."

Oswald: "A four-heart contract would breeze in. Defending against four spades, West opens a diamond and three rounds of diamonds are played. South ruffs the third diamond and leads a low spade toward dummy."

Jim: "If West clatters up with the ace there will be no problem about the rest of the tricks, but West ducks."

Oswald: "Now it is about time for declarer to take a little care. If he leads a trump back to his king West will take his ace and lead a fourth diamond. There will be no way to keep East's trump 10 from taking the setting trick."

Jim: "There is an easy way to guard against this. South just enters his hand with a club and leads a low spade. West must play his ace and now South is waiting with the king of trumps to keep East's 10 from doing any damage."

MRS. JERRY WALLIS MONROE

Miss Foley becomes bride of Mr. Monroe

Miss Judy Foley and Jerry Wallis Monroe were united in marriage at 7:00 in the evening, Friday, July 14, in the Bethany Baptist Church of Spring Hill.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Foley and Mr. and Mrs. Wallis Floyd Monroe of Hope.

Rev. Charles Jones performed the double ring ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Brooks Collins, organist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Peau de Soie with organza overlay, featuring an Alenon lace bodice re-embroidered with seed pearls. She wore a full-length mantilla edged in aloncon lace. She carried a cascade of fleur d' amour centered with a yellow orchid.

Mrs. Marion Michael Monroe was her sister's matron of honor.

Bridesmaids were Miss Karen Britt of Camden and Miss Betty Monroe, the groom's sister.

Marion Michael Monroe was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Gene Thompson and Vincent Massenilli. Ushers were Stan Parris and Vincent Massenilli.

Vows were exchanged before an altar of yellow candles, greenery and a prie dieu.

The altar was flanked by arrangements of yellow gladiolus. The altar candles were lighted by the ushers.

A reception for the guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Marcum followed the ceremony. The serving table was covered with yellow and white lace over white taffeta.

Nosegay of yellow and white daisies were at each corner of the table. The centerpiece was an arrangement of yellow and white daisies, Queen Anne's Lace, and yellow candles in a silver candelabrum.

The white tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow roses and wedding bells. Mrs. Eddie Southerland of Little Rock, presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Larry Brown served the wedding cake and Miss Paula Paschke, cousin of the bride, presided at the guestbook in the entrance of the church.

After a brief trip to Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe returned to their home at 600 So. Elm

Four Hope women are named Outstanding Young Women of America

Mrs. Joe Scruggs III, nee Marjorie Royston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Royston, Jr., Gayle Williams, daughter of Mrs. Lucy Mae Williams, Sue Graves and Peggy Wallace have been selected Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972, according to an announcement today by the Rose Garden Club of Hope. They were nominated by the organization earlier this year on the basis of their achievements.

Now in its eighth year, the Outstanding Young Women of America Program recognizes young women between the ages of 21 and 35 for their contributions to the betterment of their communities, professions and country.

More than 6,000 young women are nominated annually as Outstanding Young Women of America by civic organizations, churches and college alumni associations throughout the country. Complete biographical sketches of all nominees are featured in the annual awards publication, "Outstanding Young Women of America."

The women included in the 1972 edition are now in competition for further state and national awards. This fall, fifty of them—one from each state—will be named as their state's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year. From the fifty state winners, the national Ten Outstanding Young Women of America for 1972 will be selected.

The Outstanding Young Women of America Program was conceived—and is today guided—by leaders of the nation's major women's organizations. Serving on the program's Board of Advisors are the national presidents of women's clubs, headed by Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

In November, the 1972 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America" will be published. The volume, to be distributed nationally as a reference publication, will include special introductory messages by U.S. Rep. Martha Griffiths (D-Mich.) and Amy Vanderbilt, the nation's leading etiquette authority.

Garden of Eden story for youth

NEW YORK (AP) — "Hello, Eve," said the snake. "Hello, Snake," responded blonde Eve, coyly covering her paper-bag body with a large leaf.

The scene, as described by Baptist Press Service, marked the opening of a puppet show at the Ridgecrest Baptist assembly grounds in North Carolina staged by third- and fourth-grade day campers.

The children themselves, in their own version of the Book of Genesis account, had written the script, and provided the performance.

"Wouldn't you like to have an apple?" Snake said enticingly. "What's an apple?" Eve replied innocently.

"It's that fruit over there on that tree," Snake replied. "Oh, no, no, no!" she said. "God told me not eat anything on that tree."

"God wouldn't care," Snake responded. "Oh yes he would," Eve countered. "He told me if I ate from that tree something awful would happen to me."

"Well, I ate an apple, and nothing happened to me," the Snake boasted.

"Well, I guess I could eat it then," Eve admitted. She gave a shrill whistle through her teeth and yelled, "Adam: Don't you want to eat an apple?"

Each took a bite of the "apple" that perfectly resembled an acorn. Then they vanished into the garden foliage.

The female-sounding voice of God came from behind the Indian-blanket backdrop, "Why are you hiding?"

"Because we ate the apple," they chorused.

"Then you will have to leave the garden," declared God.

Adam and Eve broke into heavy sobs as the scene closed.

The audience, also grade-schoolers, offered loud applause for the production, aimed at helping youngsters familiarize themselves with the Bible in their own way.

Infidelity vs. Adultery

DEAR HELEN: Why is "infidelity" in marriage always linked with sex?

There's a difference between infidelity and adultery: a man (or woman) can be untrue to a spouse in many more, perhaps worse, ways than sexually.

For example, there's the "faithful" wife who never once refused her husband, but never once understood him either. And how about the man who enjoys the marriage bed but shares no other part of his life with his so-called mate? Selfishness, belittling, ignoring, obvious boredom, lack of sympathy—these rob a marriage of its joy, thus they're a form of "cheating."

Supposedly "true" people commit mental infidelity each day, and this kind hurts the most.

My husband and I are both career persons and are away from home often. When we are separated, I don't expect him to withstand all physical temptations. But so long as they are mere encounters, who cares? I don't quiz him. He doesn't question me. Possible extracurricular sex leaves us unworried because we have the complete marriage: we are best friends as well as lovers, communicate as equals, have the freedom of trust (where it really matters) and therefore don't bother with jealousy.

What I mean is a little adultery doesn't need to break up a marriage, if it's a cool sampling of something different. But infidelity—with or without sex—can end it because that means shattered faith.

MODERN CAREER WIFE DEAR MODERN:

True, "cheating" takes many forms, some much less forgivable than sex. BUT...What begins as your cool, modern fun-and-games adultery oftentimes becomes faith-shattering infidelity. Are you two sure you can turn off the "passing physical encounters" before they go mental?—H.

DEAR HELEN:

The trouble with traditional marriage is that a mate must be all things to his or her spouse, and one person isn't usually capable of "all things." Some women are good at housekeeping, others at seduction; there are wives who help their husbands in business, can talk to them "man to man," but can't entertain, and are failures with children. Likewise, the man who is best at romance may not be the greatest provider; he could like children but he might fail at managing them.

Seems to me the logical solution is group marriage, or anyway commune living where each person provides one skill and they all combine to make life ideal.—DREAMER

DEAR DREAMER: Dream on, friend, but in real life, communes or group marriages seldom last long, possibly because participants get typed as "good" housekeepers, child rearers, providers, sexpots, lovers, etc., and only the last two named don't tire of the casting.—H.

DEAR HELEN: Speaking of unwed mothers, did you hear about the girl who worked as housekeeper for a wealthy childless couple? One day she confessed to her employers that she must resign as she was pregnant. They agreed to adopt the child and let her stay on. A year later, same story, and still later they adopted her third baby, also illegitimate.

Shortly afterward, she again handed in her resignation. "In trouble again?" they asked.

"No," she complained. "It's just that I'm sick and tired of having to care for such a large family!"—H.R.C.

Broncos will take their chances

DENVER (AP) — Jim Turner kicked 25 field goals in 38 attempts last season and might have led the conference in scoring if he had had more than 18 opportunities to kick extra points.

Those figures reveal a good deal about the 1971 Denver Broncos. But the figures had best not be indicative of the 1972 version if the team is to improve on its 4-9-1 National Football League record.

The 18 touchdowns marked a record low for the club and stand as a glaring reminder of Denver's frustrating inability to move the football inside the opponents' 20-yard-line.

So concerned is coach John Ralston with that malady that he plans to use a two-tight end offense in those situations—utilizing the impressive talents of top draft choice Riley Odoms—and has experimented with letting running back Bobby Anderson, a quarterback in college, direct the option deep in enemy territory.

For Ralston, the innovator, nothing is sacred if it'll put points on the board. "Ours won't be a conservative approach," he promises. "We'll always take chances to win games."

His imaginative bent should prove a welcome change for Bronco fans, but whether he can make the club a contender in the tough West Division of the American Conference with virtually the same personnel as last year remains to be seen.

The former Stanford mentor has, however, inherited some solid performers and cohesive units, in the defense and the running game.

Headed by a hard-charging front four, the Bronco defense led the NFL with 44 quarterback sacks last season. That came despite the calamities that befell the two starting ends, Pete Duranko and All-Pro Rich Jackson. Duranko missed the entire regular season and Jackson the last half with knee injuries, but both are expected to be fully recovered.

Veteran tackle Dave Costa, who didn't agree with Ralston's coaching techniques in training camp, has been traded.

Tigers rebound in sixth

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Billy Martin had a lot going for him. All Chuck Tanner had was his 10-year-old kid. In each case, it was just about enough.

Martin's Detroit Tigers, rebounding from a nine-run California explosion in the fourth inning, came up with eight of their own in the sixth to outlast the Angels 11-9 Sunday and grasp a 1½ game lead over Baltimore in the American League's East Division.

And in the West, Tanner's Chicago White Sox split a double-header with Boston to climb into a flat-footed first-place tie with Oakland.

"I found a good luck piece Friday on the floor of the shower," said the manager of the Tigers, "and we've been winning ever since." Then, pointing to other religious articles sent to him by fans, among them a St. Christopher's Medal and a Mezuzah, he added: "We've got everything going for us."

It was Martin who, a week ago, in a successful effort snap Detroit out of a slump, determined his starting lineup by picking it out of a hat.

Tanner went him one better Sunday. He had his 10-year-old son, Bruce, choose the White Sox' lineup. The result was a 9-7 victory over Boston in the opener of their twinbill. Then Tanner reverted to his own lineup and came out on the short end, the Red Sox winning 5-4.

Bruce Devlin wins USI Golf Classic

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Bruce Devlin picked up the check for $40,000 sighed a bit, smiled and commented in his usual soft tones: "That's it. I'm about through playing golf for a while. Now I've got to go to work."

He'd just scored a front-running three-stroke victory in the $200,000 USI Classic, notched his second triumph of the season, pushed his official money winnings to a personal record of $119,000 for the year—and just as he said he would—was packing it in for the year.

Asked if his overwhelming success this season would tempt him to play a heavier tour schedule, the slim, sweet-smiling Australian had a one-word answer: "No."

The 34-year-old Devlin, a plumber in Armidale, Australia, before he picked up a new set of tools to plumb the riches of the American pro golf tour, had a final-round 69 over the hills and dales of the 7,212-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course and posted a 13-under-par 275.

Cougars field youngest team in club history

HOUSTON (AP) — The vacuum created by all the departing seniors after the 1972 Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl football game left University of Houston head coach Bill Yeoman dizzy.

When Yeoman regained his equilibrium, all that was left from a 9-3 team that lost to rugged Colorado in the bowl game, was three offensive and three defensive starters.

Therein lies the story of the 1972 Cougars. Can they shore up after losing the starting backfield of quarterback Gary Mullins and running backs Tommy Mizek and Robert Newhouse along with tight end Rily Odoms, split end Pat Orchin and three of the five linemen?

"We haven't fielded a team as young in 10 years," said Yeoman, starting his 11th campaign at UH. "With so many young players in the lineup, the frame of mind of this team become even more difficult to evaluate."

DENVER BRONCOS

John Ralston

PROSPECTUS — Whole new deal as Broncos follow recent trend and import college-trained John Ralston to try to get them first winning season in 13-year history. It'll be tough. Ralston's an eager beaver but how will pros react to his gung-ho pitch? More pertinent is fact they don't really have talent to climb pronto.

OFFENSE

QUARTERBACK—Sore spot. Don Horn, who looks like he's got the skills, never has shown the leadership; Steve Ramsey's not the answer. Rating—C.

RUNNING BACKS—Start with one super threat in Floyd Little, NFL rushing leader, at the height of his career. Bob Anderson, halfback type like Little, should team with him again. Clem Turner, behind him, is more the fullback style. Joe Dawkins available, too. Rating—A-.

WIDE RECEIVERS—Unimpressive. Dwight Harrison probably best of unseasoned, erratic bunch. Last year finally had to go to Jerry Simons, who's as traveled as a rainmaker and just about as productive. They'll be scouring waiver lists. Rating—C.

TIGHT END—Got a good holdover in Billy Masters and terrific rookie in Riley Odoms, so there's plenty of blocking and receiving class. Rating—B+.

LINE—It's young and developing. Retirement of Roger Shoals not even noticed. Lots of depth and versatility. Merv Montgomery and Larry Jackson on left side are kid bruisers. George Goeddeke can play any place; Mike Current among standout NFL tackles. Rating—B.

DEFENSE

LINE—Remains stronghold of Broncos. Hampered last year by injuries to all-pro Rich Jackson and Pete Duranko at ends. Gave Lyle Alzado chance to develop, however. Inside, Paul Smith is solid. Real robust unit when all are 100 per cent. Rating—A-.

LINEBACKERS—Nondescript. Last year's incumbents are subaverage, and there are no terrors on horizon. Did pick up Al Andrews in trade with Buffalo to challenge for outside spot. Maybe draftee Tom Graham of Oregon will develop quickly. Rating—C.

SECONDARY—Not bad. Bill Thompson at right corner is a flashy performer. Leroy Mitchell on left side graded out just as well. Safeties George Seimes, Charlie Green, Butch Byrd have plenty of experience. Rating—B.

KICKING—Don't see many better placekickers than Jim Turner, who came back strong in mile-high atmosphere. Bill Van Heusen, knee-plagued, still gets first call as punter. Rating—B+.

SPECIAL TEAMS—Area that needs work; other teams outgained them in both punt, kickoff returns last year. Little on kickoffs and Thompson on punts are fine threats, though. Rating—B-.

PREDICTION

Fourth in Division. Even the vigor of Ralston can't turn Broncos around—yet.

Midland Cubs polish off Sun Dodgers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bidding to escape the second division, the Midland Cubs polished off the El Paso Sun Dodgers 7-4 and posted their sixth victory in a seven-game Texas League series Sunday.

It also was Midland's 20th triumph in the last 27 starts. El Paso retained a two-game bulge over Amarillo atop the league's West Division, however, as the runners-up bowed to San Antonio 4-3 in 11 innings. In other games, East Division-leading Alexandria walloped Arkansas 14-0 and Memphis defeated Shreveport 5-2.

Pete LaCock went four-for-four at the late for Midland with a triple and three singles while teammates Chris Ward hit a three run homer and Randy Bobb a double and a home run.

A 400-foot smash over the left centerfield wall off Steve McCartney's bat supplied the winning run for San Antonio in the 11th inning. Leon Brown socked a solo homer for Amarillo which tied the score in the seventh.

Memphis righthander Craig Swan walked none and fanned seven batters as he pitched his sixth complete game and padded his record to 7-1. He was denied a shutout by Larry Hanson's two-run single in the second frame.

Mets bring back good old days

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Just last week, the New York

Mets were talking about the summer of 1969 when they made their late-season charge to win the National League pennant.

'Old Timmy' sparks Cardinals to victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maybe this will be Old Timmy's year in pro football.

Old Timmy is Tim Van Galder, a 28-year-old rookie quarterback, who came of the bench in the second half and sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a come-from-behind 17-13 victory over the Denver Broncos in one of 10 National Football League exhibition games over the weekend.

On Sunday, the Mets had the fans talking about the summer of '62 when they were the laughing stock of baseball. The Mets brought back the good, old days—or rather the bad, old days—with a mistake-filled seventh inning that helped the Cincinnati Reds to an easy 8-1 baseball victory.

Old Timmy is Tim Van Galder, a 28-year-old rookie quarterback, who came of the bench in the second half and sparked the St. Louis Cardinals to a come-from-behind 17-13 victory over the Denver Broncos in one of 10 National Football League exhibition games over the weekend.

Van Galder, a three-year member of the Cardinal taxi squad, came in with Denver ahead 13-0 and threw a 29-yard pass to Jackie Smith on his first play.

"We needed some momentum and he gave it to us," said Cardinal coach Bob Holway after St. Louis had pulled the game out on Van Galder's five-for-eight completions for 82 yards, including the touchdown pass.

Van Galder was more fortunate than another rookie, running back Ray Jamieson of the Oakland Raiders. Jamieson suffered a broken neck during the Raiders' 34-9 romp over the Los Angeles Rams in their nationally televised game.

Jamieson underwent surgery for more than two hours and was reported "doing quite well" Sunday with no evidence of paralysis.

The New York Giants and New York Jets battled to a 31-31 deadlock, the first tie of the NFL pre-season competition. In other weekend results New England beat Chicago 27-17, Detroit drubbed Cleveland 34-7, Houston downed Green Bay 20-3, Dallas humbled New Orleans 30-7, Miami routed Cincinnati 35-19, San Diego nipped San Francisco 17-16 and Pittsburgh whipped Atlanta 31-17.

The Reds, meanwhile, remained 6½ games in front in the West over Houston. The Astros kept the pressure on Cincinnati with a 3-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

In the other National League games, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers

5-3; the San Francisco Giants trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3; the Montreal Expos nipped the Atlanta Braves 1-0 and the Pirates took a double-header from the San Diego Padres, 9-3 and 5-2.

American League results: Cleveland 3, Oakland 1; Detroit 11, California 9; Milwaukee 2, Kansas City 1; Minnesota 4, Baltimore 1; Chicago 9, Boston 7 in the first game of a double-header and Boston 5, Chicago 4 in the second, and the New York Yankees 2, Texas 0 in 10 innings.

Don Wilson struck out 14 batters and allowed just four hits while pitching Houston over Philadelphia. He fanned 11 over the last five innings, relying on his fastball.

David Pearson continues to roll up victories

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

Old pro David Pearson, approaching his 39th birthday, continues to roll up victories in stock car racing, while Al Unser appears to be back in the groove after a long dry spell.

Pearson, already the winner of $770,000 in prize money in a 15-year career, beat close friend Bobby Allison by a car length to capture the Yankee 400 stock car event at Michigan International Speedway Sunday.

It was the Mercury driver's fifth major win of the season, after replacing A.J. Foyt in the Glen Wood car in April. Foyt had taken the machine to two 500 mile wins and a second place in another.

Unser, back-to-back winner of the Indianapolis 500 in 1970-1971, showed his versatility by driving a Ford Torino to victory in a United States Auto Club stock car race at Springfield, Ill., Saturday, then 24 hours later hopping into a championship dirt car to win a feature race at the same track Sunday.

Another draw for players in chess tourney

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Bobby Fischer and Boris Spassky played to their third consecutive draw in the world chess championships Sunday, bringing the American challenger only three points from capturing Spassky's crown.

Fischer was leading 9½-6½ after the 16th game and needs 12½ to take the title held by Russians ever since 1948. They play again Tuesday in the 17th game of the maximum 24-contest championship match.

A win counts one point and a draw half a point.

Fischer's lead is enough for him to win the championship by drawing six of the remaining eight games. But Spassky, although needing only 12 points to retain his title, must win at least three and draw the other five. Most of the experts consider this impossible since in the 15 games played so far—Fischer lost the second game on a forfeit—Spassky has defeated the American challenger only twice while Fischer has won six games.

The 35-year-old champion doggedly ran out the end game for at least 25 moves after the experts agreed that Sunday's contest was a draw.

"Most of the dreary and repetitive moves of the last half of the 60-move game might have been dispensed with," grandmaster Isaac Kashdan said in an analysis for The Associated Press.

Spassky, playing black, ended up with a rook and two pawns. Fischer had a rook and a single pawn during the long deadlock.

Yugoslav grandmaster Svetozar Gligoric said the champion perhaps "at first tried to exploit the extra piece, then didn't know when to stop."

After five hours, the referee gave Fischer an envelope in which to seal his next move if the game were adjourned overnight. Fischer, who normally makes a great show of secrecy, scribbled his move and left the paper lying on the table in front of him.

Only then did Spassky extend his hand offering a draw. Milunka Lazarevic of Yugoslavia said she could not remember such an end game "when the players were not on speaking terms."

Challenge aimed to aid GOP

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Walter Carruth of Lexa, chairman of the American Party in Arkansas, claims that the challenge to the legality of American party petitions was an "obvious effort" to help Republican candidates.

Thomas A. Glaze, chairman of The Election Laws Institution, has said that 10,000 signatures on the petitions qualifying the American party presidential candidate for the Arkansas ballot are "obviously fraudulent."

Carruth said the American party nominee, California Rep. John G. Schmitz, would compete with President Nixon for large numbers of persons who will vote against Sen. George McGovern in the election and that the GOP did not want Schmitz' name on the Arkansas ballot.

In addition, Carruth said, Pulaski County Clerk Jerome Climer, a GOP candidate for secretary of state, was waging a vendetta against Secretary of State Kelly Bryant and that the attempt to disqualify signatures on the petitions was part of an effort to discredit Bryant's office.

Climer issued a statement

Saturday saying that Bryant was the "chief culprit" in the petition controversy. Climer charged Bryant with failing to properly review the petitions, which were filed with the secretary of state's office. Bryant has certified the petitions, giving the American party the November ballot position.

Climer proposed the creation of an election office within the secretary of state's office that

Five killed on highways in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Five persons lost their lives on Arkansas' highways this past weekend. Two of the fatalities were reported Sunday night, but police have not released the names of the victims.

One of the deaths occurred near Batesville and the other near Fayetteville.

The Associated Press weekend fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

State Police said David Hathcock, 20, of Bassett (Mississippi County) was killed early Sunday when he was struck by a pickup truck on Arkansas 135 south of Lepanto. Hathcock was lying asleep in the middle of the road when the accident occurred, police said.

Minimum salary for teachers is discussed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Forrest Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, said Sunday that a proposed $500 average increase in teacher salaries in each year of the next biennium was a minimum amount the teachers should receive.

But Rozzell said it probably would be the most that would be allowed under federal wage guidelines.

The state Board of Education voted Saturday to present a budget to next year's legislature that would give salary increases averaging $500 per teacher in both years of the biennium that starts July 1.

Rozzell said that while the NEA's position on salaries would not be established until later this year, the board's proposal was "substantially in line" with the teacher organization's thinking.

"It's not going to provide us with a revolutionary jump in average salaries in Arkansas compared to salaries in other parts of the nation, but we would about hold our own in relation to the other states," Rozzell said.

He said the salaries should be increased substantially more than what was proposed, but he said a problem that had to be taken into account was possible continuation of the federal wage guidelines. He said the AEA's attorney believed a $500 average increase would be allowed.

Rozzell said the state should have no difficulty funding the proposed increases with existing tax revenues. He observed that new taxes approved by the 1971 legislative session were providing more money than anticipated.

The AEA had sought an increase in the sales tax in 1971 to provide more money for salaries and the public schools, but no increase in the tax was approved. Rozzell said the AEA was not pushing for a sales tax increase by the 1973 legislature at this time.

The 1971 legislature approved average salary increases of $900 to $950 per teacher for the current biennium.

In other action, the Board of Education budgeted money to establish a state-financed kindergarten program and an increased amount for education of the handicapped. The Education Department's staff recommended that the state begin providing free textbooks in high school.

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

John "Casey" Jones was an American locomotive engineer who died while applying the brake lever of the "Cannonball" express as it hit a freight train near Vaughan, Miss., April 30, 1900. The World Almanac recalls. Jones' effort to halt the speeding train saved the lives of its passengers.

Bill Looney speaker at Hope Rotary Club

"Arkansas Highways, Which Way Do We Go?" is the latest film produced by the Arkansas Highway Department, and AHD public relations man, Bill Looney of Little Rock showed it to the Hope Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting Friday, at the Town and Country.

The progress of road construction throughout the state was shown and included the demolition of outdated bridges and the building of new ones. The area of Southwest Arkansas that was shown held particular interest to the viewers.

Rotarian John Tallant, district engineer, gave a progress report of a local nature. He expressed appreciation to the residents of South Main Street for their attitude and their patience exhibited during the long construction period. He said that Highway 29 South would get underway in about 20 days. He had hoped the new District Headquarters Building would be ready about the same time as the completion of I-30, but that isn't likely as Thanksgiving is the target date for the I-30 opening. Five miles of road at Patmos is another near-by project to be started soon.

Rotary Club President Bob Roberts welcomed one guest, Bill Snow of Texarkana, and the club members, including Terry Becherer who has been ill. He also called a board meeting for 7 o'clock tonight (Monday) at the Town and Country.

Policy statements--

AMNESTY
Democratic — To those who for reasons of conscience refused to serve in this war and were prosecuted or sought refuge abroad, we state our firm intention to declare an amnesty, on an appropriate basis, when the fighting has ceased and our troops and prisoners of war have returned.

Republican — Here and now we reject all proposals to grant amnesty to those who have broken the law by evading military service.

BUSING
Democratic — Transportation of students is another tool to accomplish desegregation. It must continue to be available, according to Supreme Court decisions...

Republican — We are irrevocably opposed to busing for racial balance...if necessary...we would favor consideration of an appropriate amendment to the Constitution.

WAGE-PRICE CONTROLS
Democratic — When price rises threaten to do or get out of control—as they are now—America's working people will support a truly fair stabilization program which affects profits, investment earnings, executive salaries, and prices, as well as wages. The Nixon controls do not meet that standard.

Republican — We have already removed some temporary controls on wages and prices and will remove them all once the economic distortions...are repaired. We are determined to return to an unfettered economy at the earliest possible moment.

TAX REFORM
Democratic — We endorse as a minimum step the Mills-Mansfield Tax Policy Review Act...which would repeal virtually all tax preferences...over the period 1974-8 as a means of compelling systematic review of their value to the nation. The most unjustified of the tax loopholes should, however, be closed immediately...

Republican — Out tax system needs continual, timely reform...the kind that more equitably spreads the tax burden...We reject the deceitful tax "reform" cynically represented as one that would soak the rich, but in fact one that would sharply raise the taxes of millions of families in middle-income brackets as well.

WELFARE
Democratic — The next Democratic administration must end the present welfare system and replace it with an income security program...to insure each family an income no less than the poverty level. Federal income assistance, according to need, will supplement the income of working poor people and assure an adequate income for those unable to work.

Republican — The Nation's welfare system is a mess. It simply must be reformed...President Nixon's goals (are) a decent level of payment to genuinely needy welfare recipients...; incentives not to loaf, but to work; requiring all adults who apply for welfare to register for work and job training and to accept work or job training...There are too many people on this country's welfare rolls who should not be there. We flatly oppose programs or policies which embrace the principle of a government-guar-

WOMEN
Democratic — ...A priority effort to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment. Elimination of discrimination against women in public accommodations... education... federally-assisted programs... criminal laws and administration... credit, mortgage, insurance, property, rental and finance contracts... Availability of maternity benefits to all working women... Permit working families to deduct from gross income as a business expense, housekeeping and child care costs... Appointment of women to positions of top responsibility (including) Cabinet members... and Supreme Court justices... The federal government to fund comprehensive developmental child care programs that will be family centered, locally controlled and universally available...

Republican — ...Ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. Appointment of women to highest level positions... including the Cabinet and the Supreme Court. Elimination of discrimination... in federal government... the criminal justice system... credit, mortgage, insurance, property rental and finance contracts... We favor the development of publicly or privately run, voluntary, comprehensive, quality day care services, locally controlled but federally assisted, with the requirement that the recipients of these services will pay their fair share of the costs according to their ability.

LABOR-MANAGEMENT
Democratic — We pledge continued support for our system of free collective bargaining... We therefore oppose the Nixon administration's effort to impose arbitration in transportation disputes through last-offer selection bill. The National Labor Relations Act (should be amended to) repeal section 14(b), which allows states to legislate the open shop and remove the ban on common sites picketing.

Republican — We will continue to search for realistic and fair solutions to emergency labor disputes, guided by two basic principles: first, that the health and safety of the people of the United States should always be paramount; and second, that collective bargaining should be kept as free as possible from government interference... We will continue to press for improved pension vesting... We pledge realistic programs of education and training so that all Americans able to do so can make their own way... We flatly oppose the notion that the hard-earned tax dollars of American workers should be used to support those who can work but choose not to...

People to fight for pecan tree

DALLAS (AP) — Defenders of a giant pecan tree vowed to put a wall of human bodies around it today in an effort to keep a bulldozer from knocking the old tree down.

The tree is all that remains on a lot where a demolition crew has just finished razing a large house in one of the city's older neighborhoods to make room for new construction.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Construction could begin early next year on the first section of work to make the Red River navigable in Louisiana, opening up vast areas of the state to access to the Mississippi River.

Congress has authorized much of the over-all project, estimated to cost around $900 million, but it has not appropriated any funds for construction.

Col. Richard L. Hunt, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers in New Orleans, said a joint House-Senate committee has approved a $1.2 million appropriation to begin work on the Red River navigation from the Mississippi river to Shreveport.

However, it still requires final approval and signing into law.

On another front, the Corps of Engineers plans to file a detailed impact environmental statement with the Council of Environmental Quality in December. This is a step that must be taken before a shovel of dirt is lifted.

Also as part of the program, the corps held three public hearings last week — in Jefferson, Tex., and Shreveport, and Alexandria, La.

At the hearings, some environmentalists cautioned the project might cause ecological damage. The Louisiana Wildlife Federation, for instance, went on record at Alexandria as not opposing the project, but said its members would keep close watch on it and would reserve the right to protest in the future any phase of the project it may feel is detrimental to the ecology.

At the Shreveport hearing, J. B. Reynolds — who represented the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. — said that the navigation would work an economic hardship to the present transportation facilities in the state. He said the area also is adequately served by transportation facilities.

Several civic and governmental groups in the area, however, spoke in favor of the project.

The overall project — as authorized but not funded by Congress — includes four sections. They are:

1. Navigation and bank stabilization on the Red River from the Mississippi River to Shreveport, a distance of about 210 miles.

2. Navigation from Shreveport to Dainfield, Tex., on 12 Mile Bayou and Cypress Bayou, a distance of about 84 miles.

3. Bank stabilization on the Red River from Shreveport to Index, Ark. No navigation is authorized so far.

People in the News

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Princess Ubolratana of Thailand became Mrs. Peter L. Jensen and said afterward, "I just couldn't be a person. But now I am no longer royalty and I am free."

Mrs. Jensen had resigned her royal claims 24 days before the wedding Saturday at All Souls Episcopal Church here.

Mr. and Mrs. Jensen are both 21 and classmates at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

She is the eldest daughter of King Bhumidol and Queen Sikitrit. Her 20-year-old brother, Prince Vajiralongkorn, is the heir to the throne.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Louis B. Russell Jr., 47, opened his house to friends and neighbors in thanksgiving for the four extra years of life he has gained through a heart transplant.

The elementary school teacher insisted the open house Sunday doesn't mean he considers himself a celebrity. He said he just likes people, and that his being the longest living heart recipient is incidental.

Russell's guests included the longest-living woman heart transplant patient, Mrs. John Annick of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Edward Rigid, also of Milwaukee, whose brother's heart was donated to Mrs. Annick.

Construction on Red River waterway to begin

4. Bank stabilization on the Red River from Index, Ark., to the Denison Dam at Denison, Tex. No navigation is planned at present.

Also at the Alexandria meeting, an official of the Louisiana Department of Public Works suggested that the corps give early consideration to building the first two locks to make it completely navigable from the Mississippi River to the Alexandria-Pineville area.

Dan Cresap, chief engineer of the Louisiana Department of Public Works, said if the idea is accepted, planning for the remainder can go ahead while the locks are constructed. One would be about 10 miles from the Red River junction with Black River and the second about 40 miles south of Alexandria.

Hunt said that the corps is weighing various opinions and requests at the hearings.

He said that it appears the first construction will primarily deal with channel alignment and bank stabilization on some of the area from the Mississippi River to Shreveport.

For instance, channels will be cut through large, meandering bends, making the pathway of the river straighter and creating an oxbow lake in what was the bend.

Hunt said this would make the Oxbow Lakes prime fishing areas. He said studies from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service showed that fishing in the whole area will be improved. He said the government also will create picnicking and camping facilities at each of the locks and dams.

Under an earlier program, 31 miles of the Red River which is near the Mississippi River are currently navigable.

Hunt said five locks and dams are to be constructed to make the 210 miles navigable from the Mississippi River to Shreveport.

Four more dams will be built in other parts of the project. Hunt said a benefit of the program on bank stabilization and channel alignment would be to greatly lower the 1,000 acres of good farmland that at present go down the river in form of silt each year. He said this would improve the water quality as well, by removing the sediment. In addition, engineers also are working to reduce the salt content that stems from deposits picked up by the river in Oklahoma and Texas.
